

John Kukoly is a senior member of the BRC Global Standards team, responsible for the BRC programs throughout the America's. The BRC Global Standard for Food Safety and the BRC Global Standards are regarded around the world as the leading food safety and quality certification program

With over twenty years management experience in the food production and certification industry, with roles in production, quality, engineering and auditing, John brings a wealth of experience and expertise to BRC and the GFSI technical working groups.

John Kukoly